As the RF/GPS/satellite industry moves towards commoditization, the need to maintain market recognition through rapid product introductions and shorter product lifecycles, coupled with technology advancement at lower cost, leaves the OEM with significant challenges in maintaining competitive advantage while maintaining a positive bottom line. VEXOS’ experience in RF/GPS/satellite supply chain solutions enable our customers to maintain their competitive advantage.

The need to have an EMS partner that understands the market dynamics and adds value is a competitive advantage. VEXOS understands this and has the systems and solutions to provide the right level of support to enable our customers to leverage their global competitive advantage without compromising product lifecycles and the product supply chain.
